Welcome address

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the 21st EuroChap 2013 Meeting which is to be held in one of the world's most beautiful cities - Rome. This venue has been previously selected several times as a meeting place for vascular specialists from all around the world. With regard to the International Union of Angiology, it is even possible to say that Rome, and Italy in general, has become the most frequent destination of scientific gatherings of this society organized to date. And this is not only by chance. Italian vascular specialists belong among the most active members of the IUA. The Italian contribution to research, knowledge and clinical practice of vascular diseases cannot be in any case overlooked.

Prof. Antignani, prof. Allegra and their team have been working for many months to organize this congress and I am glad to have the opportunity to congratulate them for preparing such a wonderful and outstanding program. Allow me to express my gratitude and conviction that we will spend together a pleasant and fruitful time in this exciting city. I am sure we'll return enriched not only by scientific news but also with a feeling of mutual friendship.

Welcome again and may we have a nice meeting in Rome!

Karel Roztocil
